Editorial

Dear Readers,

Global shipping revolution is at our doorstep with likely winners and losers, as stated by global analytical reports. From the very beginning day of 2020, the International Maritime Organization (IMO) will impose new emissions standards designed to significantly curb pollution produced by the world's ships. For some of the world's biggest oil producers and the entire shipping community, the new rules coming into force indicates a source of great concern. Whilst the maritime transport is critical to the global economy, with more than 90% of the world's trade carried by sea, the shipping industry is expected to experience a tremendous amount of change.

While the year 2019 has seen disrupting trends across the industry, such as supply chain visibility, the adaptation of online global technology platforms for better transportation management, increasing rate levels, trade wars, increased tariff rates, there many other developing trends that shipping industry should keep an eye on for forthcoming 2020. As supply chains grow to be more complex and multilayered, the transport industry witnesses new trends which can benefit in the form of more opportunities.

The marketplace has already seen major players forging alliances and taking control over supply as means of business growth or probably for survival, but in reality the popularity of consolidation is expected to further increase especially between minor players and supporting sectors in shipping industry. Recent developments indicate that the regional stronghold market players will join big players and the shipping industry is expected to get into a situation of being forced to undergo further mergers and acquisitions.

The most anticipated rise of logistics costs is another concern, as the fuel costs represent more than 50 percent of total ship operating costs, depending on the type of ship and service corridor. Ocean carriers will be reluctantly compelled to recover these costs to maintain levels of service, meaning the price of shipping goods will continue to face upward pressures. With the emergence of e-commerce and rising digital literacy among the consumers, the global logistics industry has been influenced by various factors. Various global retails companies have either started engaging with logistics service providers or contemplating the possibilities of bringing in inhouse expertise, for catering the customized demands of the consumers, in turn could possibly be resulting in the global logistics market to register a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of over 7% by the end of 2022.

Reportedly, at no point in recent history, the maritime industry has witnessed such a large degree of political, economic, social, technological and environmental changes. As a result, decisions to implement new technologies for the companies will vary, essentially for adopting more digital functions and capabilities across its value chain, and innovation becomes essential, no matter what size the company is.

At Transworld Group, with the visionary project 'Transformation in Motion' with technology driven adaption, we have created a value proposition for customers, by providing One Stop Shop solutions, managing efficiently the origin and destination logistics to provide integrated supply chain solutions. The commencement of Special Equipments, Flat Rack services for the niche segments of Out of Gauge and project cargoes and launching new sailing services with optimum utilization of resources are the outcome of Transworld Group's strength in the strategic positioning in the emerging and dynamic markets and highly adaptable to changes by precisely understanding the customers' needs and provide customized solutions to meet their supply chain demands.

Congratulations Team Transworld, for all your dedication and hard work. Let us continue to commit ourselves for our vision and values which would lead us further to scale new milestones. All the very best. Let us pledge and rededicate ourselves in upholding the endeavours of our company. Let us all commit ourselves to 'Transformation in Motion' project which would certainly lead us to greater heights.

Best Regards,

B. Mannan

Cold chain services that support perishable food distribution globally are estimated to be valued at nearly $250 billion. Experts estimate that cold chain logistics spending in support of biopharma industry is more than $10 billion and is expected to grow to $13 billion by 2019. Asia alone contributes to $1.2 billion in growth. The CAGR of cold chain markets has reached nearly 16% this year.

In spite of such huge market, billions of tons of fresh food products and millions of dollars' worth of exports are lost due to poor cold chain systems especially in developing markets. The World Economic Forum lists food crises as fourth on its top global risks of highest concern for the next 10 years. Globally, billions of dollars are spent on improving agricultural processes to create higher food yields, but the fact that nearly half of all food never makes it to a consumer's plate is largely ignored and Global losses in the food industry total more than $750 billion annually. These losses primarily result from lack of proper facilities, improper food safety handling procedures and insufficient training for those personnel working in the cold chain.

Mr. Thomas Sim, Senior VP of FIATA and well know figure as Master Trainer provided overview on the cold chain industry. Transworld group was also given opportunity to present and our presentation was well received and heard by participants. Interest was shown on AMOS and our Tech capabilities.

Contemporary view on Supply Chain Management by Mr. H.Sundarmoorthy, Manager, Warehousing and Transportation, Transworld Logistics FZE.

Based on the current market scenario, every customer is looking forward for cost reduction. Our objective should be selling our value-added service, technology in place. While meeting with new customers, provide them with complete package "one shop solutions", picking from port of discharge to end users.

Regular interactions with existing customers, benchmarking and brainstorming plays a pivotal role during this situation. It is critical to understand the scope of business from existing and new customers, and accordingly, suggest viable solutions with right premium. The criteria behind opting the business partner is based on the caliber and potential to deliver the commitments on agreed timelines.

Identifying the customers and entering into long term contracts, provide good services and word of mouth are biggest marketing tools. By doing so, additional accounts can be included in our database. Teamwork, proper co-ordination, liaising with internal and external stakeholders and importance to our business partners will lead to cost reduction, increase the productivity and efficiency, surge in margin can be availed.

In Supply Chain domain, the below fundamental points are very crucial:

1. Time
2. Space
3. Identification
4. Traceability

To obtain the above, maintain the records in fireproof manner. Therefore, the Standard Operating Procedure, policy and guidelines, corporate governance plays an important role, the same needs to be followed rigorously to achieve the Departmental Vision, Mission and Objectives.

In Conversation with Sobha Janardhanan, General Manager, Business Analytics– Dubai, Transworld Group

This month, the TransView team had a candid chat with Ms. Sobha Janardhanan, General Manager, Business Analytics, Dubai, Transworld Group about her experiences in Transworld and overall shipping industry in general. Below are the excerpts from our conversation. Sobha, an ambitious and focused individual joined Transworld Group on 8th November 2000 has seen our group evolve and was very closely associated with the Transworld journey. She moved to Dubai in Aug 1998 and hailing from the science background, she has taken up all challenges positively to join shipping industry.

Sobha joined our group as a data entry operator and has evolved into a leadership position with pure passion & dedication. She also described that how having an inquisitiveness of paying attention to every minute detail and willingness to learn had helped her grow in her career. She fondly recounts her experience when transferred from Transworld Logistics to Avana Global FZCO, (then, Balaji shipping FZCO) and how this journey has helped her in learning more about each & every department of the Group and how she has successfully transformed all those experiences into real life work scenarios. Sobha also recounts her experience with her many mentors. To have someone to guide you, to mentor you, plays a very vital role and she is fortunate enough that she had such mentors who guided & groomed her both professionally and personally. For her, learning is a continuous process and one should have the quality to work smartly and efficiently rather than doing only hardwork.

Ms. Sobha is very optimistic about her role. For her, the correct data, strong analytical skills along with right technology can contribute towards any project's success. She also says that analytics and digitalization can contribute a lot in the shipping industry. She strongly believes in a saying, "Someone may forget what you said or what you did for them, but they will never forget how you made them feel" and this applies to both internal colleagues as well and our external customers.

Sobha admires the equal opportunity provided to women in Transworld Group which has contributed immensely to carry out her duties with utmost confidence & honesty.

She firmly believes that if someone has put all the efforts then new frontiers of success & satisfaction can be achieved. She considers Transworld her home and truly believes that feeling of oneness is very important. She is very optimistic and believes that Transworld has got enough women talent who can play an important role in the success of Transworld. On a personal front - she loves to enjoy holidays with family, her other hobbies include cooking, listening to music, playing tennis, going for long drives listening to her favorite music.

World Photography Day

The Corporate Responsibility team observed the World Photography Day on 19th August 2019 by organizing photography competition across the group. The overarching theme for this year's competition was 'Gender Equity and Inclusion.' This contest was particularly inspired by the UN Sustainable Development Goals, Gender equality and reducing socio-economic inequalities. Winning photographs were selected from each category of the contest, namely, gender diversity in the maritime industry, self-portraits with creative gender empowerment slogans and the critical role of rural women in water collection.

World Alzheimer's Day

CR Energizers and volunteers in Dubai marked the World Alzheimer's Day on 21st September 2019. Facilitated by our NGO partner 4-get-me-not, a team of 45 transworld-ites and family members including children interacted with senior Emirati Alzheimer's patients in the Old People's Home in Sharjah. The volunteers and children gave dance and song performances, shared meals and distributed gifts to 48 senior patients and 32 support staff and 4-get-me-not senior volunteers, reaching out to a total of 80 beneficiaries.

National Nutrition Week

As part of our ongoing commitment to the UN Sustainable Development Goals, Zero Hunger and Good Health and Well-Being, Transworld CR Energizers across Cochin, Tuticorin, Delhi and Mumbai offices visited Old Age Homes and Shelter homes in observance of National Nutrition Week to share a meal and extend our support to the underserved. They also organized eye-checkups for the elderly, nutrition awareness and meditation sessions for the elderly. Through this initiative, we reached out to 872 beneficiaries with 62 enthusiastic energizers.

Graduation of First Batch of Smart Reading Program

Upholding Sustainable Development Goal 4 - Quality Education, Transworld Group's first batch of 13 students of Smart Reading program, organized by our NGO partner Smart Life Foundation graduated on 4th October 2019. A 20 weeks English Learning Program for blue-collar workers helps them to read, write and communicate in English. 12 students graduated with 8 receiving special award for full attendance, 5 were amongst 75 toppers and 1 was an overall topper.

Corporate Bazaar

The Corporate Responsibility Team organized a Corporate Bazaar across Transworld's operations in Delhi, Mumbai and Dubai on 18th October and 24th October respectively. The Bazaar was a platform provided to showcase handmade products crafted by people of determination, students and women artisans. Diya painting activity was conducted with our NGO partner Pragati Kendra wherein 20 volunteers from Transworld Mumbai participated. SNF Development Center, Al Noor Center and Manzil from Dubai, Sai-Kripa, Jamgar and TARA projects in Delhi, Pragati Kendra, Dynanprabhat Pratishthan and Swami Brahmanand Pratishthan in Mumbai were our partners in this initiative. Through this endeavor we were able to contribute in empowering 823 talented individuals.

Stationery Collection and Distribution to underprivileged school students in Karnataka

A Stationery Collection Drive was organized from 1st Sep -9th Sep 2019 in observance of International Literacy Day 2019 across Dubai and Mumbai operations. The CR team collected 500 kgs of stationery and toys during the week-long drive. Collected items were distributed to 810 students of Government schools of Gokak town, Belgaum, Karnataka which had previously under red alert during monsoons through NGO partner Mahesh Foundation. Nearly 2.4 lakh people were displaced across the state and more than 1,000 villages were affected across the state. This initiative was aimed at providing resettlement and rehabilitation support to students of primary and secondary schools post disaster.

Eco Warrior of the quarter

Name: Ajith Kumar C.V
Designation: Assistant Manager- Documentation
Location: Avana Logistek Ltd, Cochin
Ajith is very passionate about nature and protecting it. Global warming, climate change, increased heat, torrential rains have affected Kerala badly during the last two years and this was an eye opener for him. While searching for a solution, he found deforestation is one of the main causes for this. This realisation motivated him to plant more trees. The Kerala govt project "Maram oru Varam" (A tree is a boon) has inspired him a lot. He started planting trees on street sides along with required protective fencing within his individual capacity. His ambition is to plant 25 trees in 2019 and 50 plants during the year 2020.

Corporate Responsibility Top Energizers (2018-2019)

Energizers are a group of corporate citizens of Transworld Group, who promote a culture of community societal engagement and consciousness in line with Transworld's core value of social and environmental responsibility. We are proud of 72 vibrant Energizers across the Transworld fraternity for their commitment to energizing the lives of disadvantaged and underserved communities.

On the 1st anniversary of the launch of this program, the efforts of 10 devoted Energizers across Transworld's Global and India operations were recognized and given a certificate of appreciation.
